DELTA SIGMA DISCUSS THE CELTIC PLAY

Interesting Address Given by Mrs. McNaughton.

MANY PRESENT.

Society Elected New Vice-President at Meeting.

A very successful meeting of the Delta Sigma Society was held yesterday in the Common Room of the Royal Victoria College. Owing to the resignation of Miss Norah James it was necessary to elect a vice-president. Miss Joan Foster, third representative on the executive was chosen to fill this office and Miss Louisa Fair was elected third year representative in Miss Foster's place. It was decided that a letter should be sent to Miss James expressing regret at her resignation and thanking her for the work she had done in past years for the Society. The speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. McNaughton, was then introduced by Miss Shatford, president of the Society. She gave a very charming address on "Celtic Plays," prefacing her formal speech by a few remarks expressing her gladness at being once more back at McGill, where she had been one of the earliest women students. The development of the Celtic drama comes from an effort on the part of the Irish to realise their national existence. It formed part of a movement which aimed at reviving all their lost customs and kindling once more national consciousness. There exists in the mind of most Englishmen a great misconception of the Irish character. This is well brought out in George Bernard Shaw's play "John Bull's other Island." The Irishman has in reality a cold, clear-cut intellect. He knows what he wants and is determined to get it. He is not the gay, irresponsible creature we have so often been led to believe him.

W. B. Yeats is the great founder of the movement to present Irish plays, giving a true idea of the Irish spirit and character. He is essentially a poet, dreamer and mystic, and has written many plays showing the strange mysticism and melancholy of the Irish people. Notable among these are "The King's Threshold," "The Lake of the Red Eye," and "The Land of Heart's Desire"; and "The Workhouse Ward."

The latter shows the strange melancholy of the Irish to perfection, an element which is constantly recurring in the play of this type. Lady Gregory, the second great exponent of the Irish drama acted in this play at one time in Montreal. Lady Gregory has built up her plays chiefly from expressions which she got from the Irish peasants. There is no action in her drama, simply situations, "Telling the Good News" in typical of her work. Her most distinguished plays have been folk tales, re-telling the strange mythical stories of the peasants.

John Millington Synge is the third in this trio of the great writers of Irish plays. He wandered all over the country side collecting material for his plays and learning to understand the character of the people. "The Tinker's Wedding" (Continued on Page 2.)

JAZZ ENTHUSIASTS TOMORROW NIGHT

Arrangements Completed and Successful Evening Anticipated.

The first informal dance this year begins at 8.30 sharp in the Union ball room. Unfortunately the committee in charge have not yet completed the list of patrons, but it is hoped this will appear in to-morrow's issue. A new and welcome privilege has been secured from the all highest, namely, of continuing until 12.30 instead of 12, as formerly. The last ticket has been sold to-day, which is a good means of determining the popularity of these dances among the students of former years. The music will be supplied by the well-known orchestra of "Chub" LeBaron, while the catering will be done by Mr. Darvill, of Union Cafeteria fame. Tickets for first and second sittings will be given out at the door.

TWO MEDICAL PAPERS READ ON TUESDAY

C. A. McIntosh and C. N. Ramsay Present Excellent Addresses.

OSLER SOCIETY.

Refreshments Served at Conclusion of Profitable Evening.

The second meeting of the Osler Society was held at the residence of Prof. Whitnall, 323 Peel St., Tuesday evening, Nov. 1.

After the transaction of the regular business two very excellent papers were read, one by C. A. McIntosh on Claude Bernard, and the other by C. N. Ramsay, "Periods and Masters in Medicine."

The first paper dealt with Claude Bernard, the leading physiologist in France in the 19th Century. The influence of Majendie, under whom he received his training, was guiding the physiological thought of the time. Bernard was soon recognized to be greater than his teacher, and within a few years he had perfected researches which led to the discovery of the Glycogenic function of the liver, the action of pancreatic secretions, and the existence of Vaso-Dilator and Vaso-Constrictor nerves.

The speaker emphasized the prevailing doctrines of the time, such as the belief in vitalism and the inability of the animal organism to construct or manufacture anything new from the food it absorbed. This last it is seen, Bernard was able to prove false, though other authorities had been questioning the view for some time.

The prime qualities which enabled Bernard to perform such researches as he did were conscientious allegiance to exact truth, ability to turn from one enquiry to follow suggestions derived from the first, and lastly his marvellous imagination and remarkable manual dexterity.

C. N. Ramsay gave an essay on "Periods and Masters in Medicine." This paper was really a short outline of medical history from pre-historic days down to modern times. It touched on old medical folk-lore; told about the ancient masters, Hippocrates and Galen, and gave an interesting picture of the people and medical happenings of the Dark Ages.

From the Medieval Period, the essay went on to discuss medicine during the Renaissance; the 17th and 18th Centuries.

It concluded by drawing a mental picture of modern times; where were portrayed the rise of preventive medicine and the growth of the 20th Century medical school.

The status of the surgeon and physician in each period was delineated clearly. The cultural aspects were brought out, so that a distinct picture of the different scientific epochs was placed before the Society.

In illustrating a particular point, Ramsay made use of verse or quotations from many sources. A line from Henry; a description by Herodotus; some apt verse of Dante's, all (Continued on Page 4.)

INTERESTING DEBATE HELD LAST NIGHT

Initial Meeting of Lit. Was Most Successful.

INTERESTING TOPIC.

Sir Arthur Currie Was Present and Addressed Gathering.

A very interesting meeting of the Literary and Debating Society was held in the reading room of the Union last night. The society are to be congratulated on the success of their initial meeting of the year. A large number were present, and the representation from the R.V.C. added to the success of the evening.

W. R. Dillon, the president, announced the subject of the evening, Resolved: "The Abolition of Titles tends towards greater Democracy." He affirmed to be supported by Wilkes and Daly, of Law, and the negative by Kennedy and Tremaine, of Commerce.

The arguments presented by both parties were clear and concise, supported by concrete examples in history, though many items were dealt with in the abstract.

The styles of the different speakers produced different effects, all of which were convincing and conducive to further thought on the part of the audience.

The judges of the debate being Messrs. R. L. Calder, G. Barclay, and the Hon. A. K. Hugeson, were asked to retire to prepare the decision, during which interval the meeting was thrown open for discussion. The interest taken in the discussion was indicative of the attention shown during the debate, and both sides of the question were further emphasized and discussed.

The decision of the judges was then given by Mr. Calder, who, in a pleasing manner presented the difficulties in dealing with a topic of such a wide and unrestricted range as the debates. Hence the manner of presentation decided the question, and by a close margin the supporters of the affirmative won. The individual criticisms given by the judge were not only of a helpful nature to the debaters, but to all those present he qualities of good debating being fully emphasized.

The presence of the Principal, Sir Arthur Currie added greatly to the success of the evening. Being called upon to speak, the Principal emphasized the importance of such a society as the "Lit." in a university. He said the primary aims of an education was to make men think, and this society was a means to that end.

In the course of his remarks the Principal said he would like to see a chair of Eloquence established in McGill, and at present negotiations are under way to bring this about.

This announcement was received with great applause by those present, who recognize the need of such a course to finish their education.

WRESTLERS OUT TO WIN HONOURS

Coach Smith Has Thirty Men at Practice.

The Wrestling Club had a very successful practice yesterday afternoon in the Union hall room. Over thirty wrestlers turned out, and they were put through a fast work-out under the able direction of Coach Smith. The practice was mostly in the form of mat work, last year's veterans, owing to their better condition and knowledge of the game, taking on the new men in turn. A large number of the new men show promise of becoming serious contenders for places on the Intercollegiate team, notable among which is Cohen, of the 145 pound class. He has shown up well in the work-outs, and with more training should give last year's men in that class a good contest.

The number of the squad this year has been small compared with last year. However, this drawback is countered by the fact that more efficient coaching can be given to a smaller class. There are now three mats available for the wrestlers, and a large number of men can be worked out at the same time. The Wrestling Club is sending out another call for more men, and all newcomers should attend the next practice at the Union hall room at five o'clock this Monday. On account of the Syracuse football game this Saturday, there will not be a practice that day. (Continued on Page 4.)

MONTREAL THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1921.

SOCIAL LIFE.

The beginning of the purely undergraduate social season comes on Friday night, when the first of the series of informal dances put on annually by the Students Council will take place at the Union. These functions have always been highly popular with the students in the past, and do not need advertising for their financial success, as the limited number of tickets distributed for them is always sold out in an extraordinarily short space of time, and we are not speaking of them for any such purpose, except to call attention to the large place they fill in the social life of the student body.

Student life has from time immemorial been divided into three parts, academic, athletic and social. Each one of the three is important if an all-round education is wanted, and no one can be very well done without. However, perhaps a little too much stress is sometimes laid by the professorial staff on the first, and by the sports leaders on the second. While the undue indulgence in social activities by an inevitable element in this and every other university may cause the average man to regard it in an unfavorable light. This is unfortunate.

For nothing is more beneficial to the development of character, and a certain amount of 'worldliness' if you will, than a proper amount of social mixing, with the gentler sex as well as our own. A college man is required by a fastidious public opinion to be broad-minded in all directions, and in order to be so he must develop the social side of his make-up as well as every other. The pleasant association with members of the opposite sex which we get at social functions is a real broadening influence which tends to draw a man out of his narrow shell and for the sake of this influence we should not refuse all opportunities of this nature.

The informals afford splendid chances for any man to become acquainted with the women students of R. V. C., and many of the young ladies of Montreal. They are inexpensive, and as they are strictly informal, it is hoped there will be no transgressors of this rule, the bugbear of evening clothes, to which the means of most students do not extend, need keep no one away. So far it has been pretty well the same men who have gone to them each time. This may not be due to their selfishness, but to the ignorance of the greater part of the student body as to just what they were. It is hoped that in the future a greater number of men will take an interest in them so that they will play an even larger part in the general social life of McGill.

VOTE, VOTE, VOTE, MCGILL.

This is not intended as a political appeal to the undergraduates or as any semblance of such for the "Daily" is strictly a non-partisan paper. But as we naturally presume that all those men eligible to vote in the coming federal elections wish to do so, we consider that the how of doing so should be brought to their attention.

It is unnecessary here to enlarge upon the duty of each holder of the franchise to exercise his or her right, and the careful consideration they should give to the matter when they do exercise it. Certain it is that all those eligible to vote should do so as it is always to the best interests of the country to have the whole electorate show their wishes in the particular issues which the election is to decide. More than that, we do not need to say except to point out that college men, above all, should be able to register their votes intelligently because their university training enables them to judge an issue on its merits alone, and therefore they ought not to be blinded by empty, meaningless, political war-cries. And since clear-headed voting is needed at all times, McGill men should seize this opportunity of helping out their country.

Practically all out of town freshmen who have reached the required age of twenty-one years will be ineligible, as the registration requirements ask for two months' previous residence in Montreal. But any men who have been at McGill before and comply with age regulations may register and vote. Presumably most of these men will be living in the vicinity of the college, and will be in the St. Lawrence-St. George division. They may easily find out their particular registration booth from the many notices to that effect which adorn the telegraph poles in the neighborhood.

The main point, however, which we wish to bring up is this. Registration closes next Saturday. And if you are not duly registered you cannot vote. Therefore lose no more time in the matter, but register at once, so as not to lose your vote.

FIRST MEETING OF CERCLE FRANCAIS

Hearty Invitation to Students in Every Faculty

The first meeting of the Cercle Francais will take place in Room 7 of the Arts building to-day at 3 p.m. The Cercle Francais offers exceptional opportunities to any one who is interested in learning French conversation. Let it be understood that this club extends its invitation to all undergraduates of the University, irrespective of the faculties, so that all those students who would "parlez vous" are more than heartily invited to attend this initial meeting. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the plans for the present session.

SCIENTIST LECTURES HERE ALL NEXT WEEK

Dr. Ernest Cohen, Professor of Physical Chemistry in the Royal University of Utrecht, is visiting America on the invitation of several of the larger universities of the United States. Owing to the efforts of the Principal and the Board of Governors, this celebrated chemist and physicist will give a course of five lectures beginning on Monday (Thanksgiving Day) at five o'clock in the large lecture room of the Chemistry Building.

Dr. Cohen is an able speaker in English and has made a great name for himself in his researches along the border line of Physics and Chemistry, particularly regarding matter in an unstable state and the chemical and physical changes when matter is under enormous pressure. Lantern slides and experiments will illustrate his lectures.

LUCKY MEN IN JUNIOR DANCE LIST

Students Eligible for Tickets Announced.

SOME ELIMINATED.

Price Reduction to Six Dollars Seems Very Probable.

Below are the lists of those in Arts, Science, Medicine, and Law, who will be eligible for tickets for the Junior Dance. Commerce and Dentistry will follow tomorrow. In two of the cases below a draw was necessary and the committee wish to assure the unfortunate ones that all fairness was used, and the fickle goddess of fortune not happening to be smiling their way just then.

There is an announcement to be made which will perhaps cause a little joy to those who will be going to the dance. And that is that a reversion to the six dollar price is very probable in the light of some newly-received tenders which carry with them lower prices than it was before thought possible to obtain. If these prove satisfactory then it is more than likely that the tickets will be six dollars per couple. The committee is unwilling to make a final positive statement in that regard however until further investigation is made.

The dance will take place on the last Friday in the month, the 25th, at the Union, which will of course be specially decorated for the occasion.

DISARMAMENT DEMANDED BY WOMEN'S CLUB

Resolution Passed at Meeting of University Women.

CONFERENCE MET.

U. S. Building Warships While Britain Makes Fleet Smaller.

At an educational conference of the North Atlantic Section of the American Association of University Women which was held last week-end, Oct. 28th-30th, in New York, the delegates drew up and passed a remarkably significant resolution as a result of the attitude of many of the members regarding that question of such vital international importance as Disarmament.

The President of the United States recently issued an invitation for a meeting at Washington to discuss the Limitation of Armaments and Far Eastern Questions. At the same time, however, the United States is engaged in extensive naval construction while Great Britain, on the other hand has sold no less than three thousand ships of war. In view of such a situation, the delegates of this sectional conference of University Women, who feel keenly the consequences which may arise out of such a situation, drew up and passed a forceful and comprehensive resolution, expressing their gratitude to the President for having called this meeting, and urging all delegates of the United States congress to put forth, in view of their peculiar responsibilities, their utmost efforts to bring about a mutual agreement to suspend all present programs for naval construction until some permanent international agreement can be arrived at; and furthermore to provide such international sanction as shall make said agreement for suspension effective.

A copy of this resolution passed by the North Atlantic Sectional Conference will be sent to every member of the American Association of University Women, with instructions for each member to write individually to her own senator and member of Congress, requesting him to consider this matter earnestly.

When taking into consideration the fact that this great association has thirteen thousand members—educated women who are alive to the vital problems and pressing needs of the world today—it seems as though such a combined effort cannot fail to rouse a nation to a sense of duty to herself and to her neighbors.

Miss Hurlbatt, who attended this conference by special invitation as an international guest, was very greatly impressed with the attitude of determination and sincerity of all the delegates over this vital question. It was the main feature on the program of the convention when, at a dinner held on Saturday night, especially invited speakers were present to speak on the subject. Some of these were from Great Britain, France, Japan and China, this last country being represented by the Secretary of the Chinese Delegation to the Washington Conference. The peculiar interests of France on this subject of disarmament were forcibly put before the meeting by the Chairman, Miss Gildersleeve, Dean of Barnard College, Columbia University, and also by the speaker representing Great Britain.

With such a force of public opinion behind her, one feels as though the whole of America must arise up in support of such a movement.

CHINESE COFFIN IN NEW COLLECTION AT MUSEUM

A Chinese coffin figures in a collection brought together by the late E. R. Butterworth, funeral director, and sent to the state museum by his sons. It is a varied collection composed of all manner of old and interesting things. There are some very ancient, historical firearms, one a Chinese jingo or three-man gun. The Indian garments are valuable as costumes and the snowshoes are of every kind and description.

These are only a few of the things in an extensive and historically valuable collection.

VERY UNIQUE NEW MEDICAL SOC. FORMED

Very Select Membership Limited to Twenty-four.

ELECTION HELD.

Ambitious Programme Proposed for Series of Future Meetings.

The inaugural meeting of a New Medical Society, to be known as the Parsons and Wright Society of McGill University was held last night at the residence of Prof. Harry Gideon Talbot, M. D. C. M., 434 Basset Street. The aim of this new society is to take care of subjects, apart from those in the curriculum, not now being taken up by sectional Medical Societies.

The meeting opened with about twenty enthusiastic medical students present, and was shortly interrupted by the entrance of five more. Prof. Talbot called the meeting to order, and stated that at the instigation of a number of students possessed of great initiative he consented to form the society. From the outset, he stated, he did not wish to see the meetings affected with palatostaphylitis, but wanted a spirit of harmony to prevail. Those affected with leukomyopathy, would be rigorously excluded, because membership in the Parsons and Wright Society carried with it a presumption of ability without retinoblastitis.

There was a special significance attached to the name Parsons and Wright. These two gentlemen were great benefactors of a number of students in Medicine and their memory was still green in the minds of many of the present students. Parsons' and Wright's practical manual was of inestimable benefit to students, not entirely on account of what it contained, but mainly on account of what it left out. Anything left out, was always appreciated by students.

The first thing to do was to elect officers and the following were elected: Hon. Pres., Prof. Talbot; President, T. O. Morrow; Vice-President, Wade McNutt; Secretary, I. Will Rapp; Treasurer, V. Raile.

After the election of officers the question of the limitation of members arose, and a heated discussion resulted. It was pointed out that the society was unable to find a meeting place for a large number of members on account of the numerous societies at present in existence in Medicine. Adam Shortt of Med.

moved that membership be restricted to ten members, and when asked if that number included himself, he modestly admitted that it should. This evoked a storm of discussion, and as no seconder was found to support the motion, it was lost.

Kerteuffel then moved that all students of the university be admitted to membership, and that a fee of ten cents per man be exacted of each. McNutt immediately objected to this, as he said that students in Arts or Science should not be given a Medical course for ten cents, as there was great danger of those men learning medical secrets and prescribing for themselves, which might bring about unfortunate results, such as corestenoma congenitum in the next generation. The motion was lost. After much discussion it was decided to limit the number of members to between 23 and 25, and as there were 25 students present, it was decided to elect the freshman. This was done by unanimous vote, and the meeting continued.

Business proceeded and it was decided to discuss a simple subject at the next meeting. As a result a paper will be read on "The Relation of the Plantar arch to the absence of calor in the Pedal Extremities" on Friday November 31. Other subjects to follow will be: "The Importance of a Physiologically Saline Solution in the Preparation of the Cadaver; Ramifications of the Sympathetic Nervous System and Vagus Discussion; Fibrillations in relation to Endocarditis; and The effect on Posterity of enforced lethal termination at 55."

To prevent any ill-feeling on the part of the other students the names of the members will not be published, and the names on the waiting list will be kept in strictest confidence.

DELTA SIGMA DISCUSSES THE CELTIC PLAY.

ding," one of his best known plays shows an amusing presentation of the Irish character, as does also his great comedy "The Play Boy of the Western World". These plays aroused some hostility among the Irish who believed that their foibles were being held up to master of tragedy.

The wonderful beauty of these plays lies to a great extent in their diction and cadence, but the strange mystic Irish tales have a charm of their own which cannot fail to hold the interest and move the heart of the spectator.

Mrs. McNaughton, on the conclusion of her address was presented with a bunch of chrysanthemums as a slight token of the appreciation of the Society for her kindness in speaking to them. Tea was then served and the meeting adjourned.

T. CALLAHAN YALE LEADER HELPS "SHAG"

Famous Eli Centre Instructs Linemen.

ALL-AMERICAN.

Team Will Practice Each
Morning Until Syracuse
Game.

Intensive work in preparation for the Syracuse game on November 5th, yesterday took on a more serious aspect, so far as the players are concerned, when they were ordered to be out on the field at 7 a.m. in order to go through a short drill before classes. With drooping heads and blinking eyes the gridiron warriors reluctantly trotted out on the stadium but after a few minutes of work Shag had them men in condition for a valuable hour or so of instruction, with only three days in which to prepare for the invading American eleven, the coach decided that some additional work was of the utmost necessity if the Red and White is to step out on Saturday, prepared for its worthy foe.

The bulk of the day's practice, however, was left for the afternoon, when the coaching staff was augmented by the presence of "Jim" Callahan, captain of the Yale football team for the last two years, during which time he was twice selected by Walter Camp, to fill the pivot position on his mythical All-American eleven. "Jim" was probably the greatest centre ever developed at Yale where his defensive work brought him considerable fame. Though he possessed a burden of some 225 pounds to carry with him at all times, his speed was not handicapped by his weight. It was not at all uncommon for him to break through the line and stop the opponent's halfbacks even before the play got under way. He was a deadly tackler and will probably be able to instruct some of the linemen in that phase of the game. Callahan is a graduate of the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale and is now employed on the construction of the Mount Royal Hotel. He will be one of the officials in the international contest on Saturday.

Jim will be remembered as one of the figures in the touching scene at last year's Yale-Princeton game in the Palmer Stadium, when he, captain and centre of the Eli team, played opposite his brother "Mike", centre and leader of the Tigers; their mother, firmly neutral, saw her sons play each other to standstill in a game which the Princeton boys won after a fierce battle with the Blue.

Eddie Brown was again on hand yesterday, and with "Jim" gave the squad a great deal of instruction in the rules of the game as it is played below the border. Callahan took charge of the linemen, while Eddie Brown devoted most of his time coaching the ends.

The afternoon's work started with "Boo" hurling some forward passes with "Bones" Little, "Flin" Flanagan and "Jeff" Russell on the receiving end. The Red and White captain is improving daily in this department and it will not surprise the coaches if the local machine gains a good deal of ground by the use of the "enemies own weapon". Of course the ability of Little, Flanagan and Russell at catching the pigskin is causing no one any serious worries, they all handle the ball with great ease and confidence and it is the opinion of many of the spectators who have turned out to watch this week's practices, that these three men may get away on long runs by means of the aerial attack.

Shag then left the linemen in charge of the former Yale captain, while he and Eddie Brown looked after the backfield and the wings. Callahan instructed the middle and inside wings, known as tackles and guards respectively, in the American game, in the correct positions for charging and defensive work. It was interesting to watch this two hundred pounder prancing around like a school-boy. A year's absence from the game seems to have deprived him of none of his agility. He also spent some time with the centres, revealing to them the intricacies of the spiral pass from snap-back position. The line is causing the coaches some worry; for, while the men are speedy and willing, they are considerably handicapped by lack of weight. The outcome of Saturday's struggle depends in a great measure on the ability of our line to hold off such men as Culver, Van Blarcom, Herra, Jappe and Thompson. It is likely that Capt. Gulick will be obliged to watch the game from the side-lines, due to an injury received in the Brown game.

A great deal of improvement was noticed in the work of the wings who under Eddie Brown's tutelage are coming along nicely. The shifting of Bones Little to the outside position bolsters up the line to a great extent. He is catching on to the idea of interference and can be depended upon to look after his side of the line in great fashion.

Shag sent the backfield through a number of formations and some of the spares showed up to good advantage. The make-up of the backfield is problematic. It is tolerably certain that Phillips will be unable to start, his injury has kept him from practice all week and it is a question whether he could slip in and work smoothly under the new rules. Cape and Stearns have shown a great amount of promise and it is not at all unlikely that either or both these men may be in the line-up at the kick-off. Carroll, Russell and Flanagan have been coming along nicely. But it seems

ORANGE SQUAD ARE COUNTING ON VICTORY

Syracuse Team Working
Overtime for McGill
Game.

FAST GAME.

"Shag's" Squad Will Battle
Royally Against "Chick"
Meehan's Outfit.

The Syracuse University football team which meets McGill at the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium on next Saturday is certainly being brought along nicely in its season's development. In its first game, September 3rd, it defeated Hobart 35-0, showing plenty of latent power and promise. A week later the Orange disposed of a team much heralded this year, Ohio University, which is also on Columbia's schedule, by a score of 38-0. The size of the score was a surprise to many. The next game was with the Maryland State eleven, present year conquerors of Rutgers, and they were defeated 42-0. Each game in this early part of the schedule showed good improvement over the preceding one, and "Chick" Meehan and his assistant coaches were well pleased with their team's play.

The first real test of the schedule was with Brown University last Saturday, October 15, and they were defeated, 28-0.

Now the slogan at Syracuse is "Beat McGill, Colgate and Dartmouth." The Colgate game seems to be a "set up" this fall, although no matter what record the team from Hamilton, N.Y., makes during the remainder of its schedule, it is sure to make a stubborn fight against the Orange.

The McGill and Dartmouth games seem to be the real obstacles to a clear slate this year for "Chick" Meehan's men. The chief worry that has been on Coach Meehan's mind has been the performance of his line to date. He and Coach "Big Bill" Horr have been working overtime on it—trying to remedy the outcropping defects in play which have developed during the early part of the season. Captain Gulick at tackle has been performing in his usual splendid manner and his work to date has stamped him as a possible All-American line man for this season. The other positions are to be filled from "Tiny" Clash—who has been nursing numerous injuries, Jappe, the big blonde lad from Brooklyn Thompson, a veteran who has been slow in rounding into shape this year, Van Blarcom, a real promising youngster from last year's undefeated freshman team, Heers, another varsity veteran, Waldorf, a crew man who has been showing great promise, and Big Jim Murray, Lew Carr's pitching ace. Culver at centre has apparently cinched his job, unless injuries put him on the bench. He is a light-weight when compared with the usual centre found on big varsity teams—but he is one of the most aggressive and heady players on the Orange squad. He weighs less than 165 and plays defensive end and offensive center—some job for any afternoon. His play to date, however, has caused the Syracuse followers to cease their worries about replacing their All-American Joe Alexander—who played the position last year.

The backfield problem has been much more simple—there being an abundance of excellent material—all performing up to expected form. The reliable Anderson is playing his usual brilliant game, hitting the line consistently for large gains, while on the defense he is by far the greatest back on the Syracuse squad. All the Syracuse followers are rating him an All-American this fall—many of the critics having given him prominent mention because of his splendid work last season. His one fault of a year ago—fumbling—has been entirely overcome this year.

Bill Kellogg and Gifford Zimmerman—the two flashes of the backfield—are great open field runners and are very consistent in making long gains around the ends. "Babe" Frugone, the New York lad is giving them both a great battle for a regular berth and his play to date has been so good that he has shared the assignments in every game. "Fritz" Foster, Anderson's understudy, is a valuable man for any team, for in addition to his line plunging ability he is a splendid kicker. His one weakness is on the defense but he is showing improvement over previous season's play. Coach Meehan has been devoting a great deal of attention to remedying this fault.

The quarterback job has been a merry battle all season between diminutive "Benny" Moses and Harry Herbert. Neither has exhibited wonderful general ability, but the only positions settled are "Don" Bailey at quarter and Captain "Boo" Anderson at fullback. The contest promises to be a gruelling one and it is certain that many spares will be given an opportunity to perform.

The practices have attracted much interest and large numbers of enthusiasts have been out daily to watch the team in action. Many of the railbirds are so enthusiastic that even darkness does not end their stay. Some of them continued to "hang around" until long after sundown to watch the team practicing with the white ball.

GOOD RUGBY.

Final Score 14—7 in Favor of
Royal Military College

(Special to McGill Daily.)
Kingston, Ont., Nov. 2.—The Royal Military College, duplicating their feat of last Saturday, defeated the McGill intermediate aggregation to-day by a score of 14 to 7, giving the victory in the home and home series to the Kingston squad by a margin of 28 points.

The teams put up a splendid exhibition of Canadian rugby, and their efforts were well and enthusiastically followed by a large crowd which attended. The game developed into a kicking contest between the two back line divisions, pivoting upon McPherson and MacLean, of R.M.C., and McGill respectively. MacLean made a remarkable play for McGill when he kicked a field goal from the 40-yard line. Hamilton, playing flying wing for R.M.C., managed a spectacular run during the third quarter of the entire length of the field, securing a touchdown for his team.

During the progress of the first quarter the Red and White held their opponents well, and at the finish were one point up, but during the succeeding period R.M.C. ran up another six points, while McGill's tally only amounted to one. After half time, although McGill gained five points, the Cadets increased their total by eight, making the final score 14 to 7 for R.M.C.

This victory by the Royal Military College places them in the finals, and eliminates McGill from the intermediate race.

The teams lined up as follows:

LEAVE IT TO '25
We Freshmen may be green all right, Of that we have no doubt, But when we look at swelled up Sophs How can we help but shout? We have a door all to ourselves, Distinction, also class; Our nobby caps and arm bands too, Put us above the mass Now when there's something to be done Something broad or slender, Just call on good old '25 And watch us how we lend 'er ship to date, both showing lapses of judgment at times in the early season games. Their play in this respect is improving, however. Both are clever at carrying the ball and there is little to choose between them in that respect. Moses is an excellent forward passer, while Herbert is a much faster runner than his rival. Other backs who are still in the fight and have had a chance to show in nearly all the games are Trout, Cole and Granai.

On the wings "Chick" Meehan has at least four promising men, although all four are inexperienced as varsity men and still have much to learn before they can be classed as good ends, capable of successfully filling the places of last year's star ends, "Mickey" Fallon and Harry Robertson. Baysinger and MacRae, from last year's undefeated yearling team seem to have the call. Both are rangy men, slightly over 170 pounds each and with experience ought to make fine ends. Rosenkrantz and Olson are running a close second for the regular assignments. The former is an excellent player but has been handicapped this season by a strained back which is rapidly mending. Olson, although a trifle slow for a good end, is playing a consistent game. These four have two more seasons to go on the varsity and Coach Meehan is developing them with an eye to the future as well as to the present season.

The feeling in Syracuse following the defeat at Pittsburgh is that it was a bad case of stage fright—a team of youngsters against the team of veterans and the cry now is to forget it and on to McGill. The game here in Montreal on Saturday should be a hummer as Syracuse will come up here prepared to wage a battle royal and to annex a victory if possible. Frank Shaughnessy's team will give them a scrap and has more than an outside chance for a victory.

SCIENCE WINS HANDILY FROM COMMERCIALS

Decisive Victory Registered
Yesterday Afternoon.

SCORE 14—0.

Science Must Beat Arts Friday to Tie With Medicine.

Before a fair crowd of spectators, the Science rugby machine outplayed and outkicked the Commerce team by the score of 14—0 yesterday afternoon. The game was featured by some spectacular end runs and good kicking on both sides.

Science kicked off, the kick going into touch, so another kick off was tried, which was returned by Commerce to mid-field. Science kicked on third down, forcing the play into Commerce territory. On an exchange of kicks Science gained and receiving the ball on Commerce thirty yard line kicked for one point. Commerce penalized 15 yards for offside. Science worked the ball down near the Commerce goal, and failing in a drop, scored another rouge. The play then worked into Science territory, when Science were penalized for offside. Science put the ball back into centre field, on an exchange of kicks, and shortly before quarter time kicked for their third rouge. Commerce kicked, and the ball was run back to the Commerce thirty yard line, when Williams caught it and passed to Hamilton, outside the Commerce wings. This followed by a long pass to Dion, put the ball on the Commerce six yard line. On the second down Smith went over for a touch. Not converted. One more rouge for Science finished the scoring of this period.

Commerce began the second half with a vim and gained yards three times on bucks by Gamble and MacMahon. Cannon went around the Science left end for a good gain. Commerce forced to kick, and lost their gain when the ball hit one of their own men. Science gained, and shortly after kicked for another rouge, when a drop failed. Another rouge for Science was made just before the end of the third quarter.

The last period started with the ball near the Commerce goal line. Two bucks by Science failed to gain yards. Hamilton then kicked a drop for the final score of the game, Science then holding steadily until the whistle blew.

The game was ably refereed by Chisholm, of Medicine.

SCIENCE '23 WINS INDOOR BASEBALL

Hard Clouting Results in
32—8 Score.

Amidst a cloud of hits and errors Science '23 emerged victorious in their first game, beating Arts '24 by a wide margin. Every man of the winning team smashed out a hit, while the big majority of them duplicated that feat two or three times.

Jimmie Simpson was there with the goods, and held the Arts team to one run up to the sixth inning, when they scored the majority of their runs.

Blundell pitched the first five innings for the losers, but without sup-

Syracuse, N.Y., Nov. 2.—The Varsity squad was idle on Monday after the strenuous game with Washington and Jefferson Saturday. On Tuesday the team engaged in only light work, and went through a snappy signal drill. To-day the eleven resumed hard work by lining up for scrimmage against the husky Freshman team.

The team is still carrying several crimples: Captain Gulick is out of the game with an injury received to the knee in the game with Brown. Zimmerman, the fleet half back, is nursing an injured shoulder, and will probably not appear in the line-up against the McGill eleven. He is being rested up in order that he might be in condition for the Colgate game which takes place in the Syracuse Stadium on November 12. Thompson, the veteran guard, will also be out of the line up in Montreal.

Captain Gulick will be replaced by Heers, who has shown great form thus far this season; and Waldorf, a promising line-man from last year's Freshman team, will step in Thompson's position at left guard.

Herbert, who played a brilliant game on Saturday against W. and F. is "Chick" Meehan's choice for quarterback. Frugone will replace Zimmerman at one half, while Anderson will appear in his old position at the other half, and Kellogg at full back.

The line will be composed as follows: Baysinger and McRae, ends; Van Blarcom and Jappe, tackles; Heers and Waldorf, guards; and Culver, centre.

No seniors will appear in the line-up. Thus a strong team is assured for next year.

HARRIERS OFF TO KINGSTON THIS MORNING

Leave Bonaventure Station at Ten O'clock.

TEAM CONFIDENT.

Will be up Against Strongest Aggregations in Years.

This morning at 10 a.m., the Harrier team leaves Bonaventure station for Kingston, the scene of this year's intercollegiate harrier race.

Capt Legg and his men, while realizing the strength of the other teams entered in the race, are confident that their team work will bring another intercollegiate title to McGill.

Varsity this year has the strongest team which has represented her for years. Leigh, who last year broke the three mile track record, and won the harrier race against such men as Hamilton and Antliff, the McGill stars, is outshone by McAuliffe, who this year clipped thirty seconds off the three mile record.

R. M. C. will again be represented by a strong team, as cross-country running takes a very important place in athletics at the military college.

Queens also report a stronger entry than usual, and may be the "dark horse."

The McGill team are by no means disheartened by this improving list of entries; but on the hand hand, are all the more determined to finish in front.

Van Wagner, who will accompany the team, claims that the strong team work of which they are capable, will offset the individual efforts of any stars the other colleges are entering.

Legg ran a splendid race last Saturday against the best five-milers in Canada, and proved himself a star of the first degree.

Wiggins, Egerton, Stephens and Owens, the other four runners, have benefited much by the "finishing touches" this week. While Copeland, who replaces Wade—the latter having contracted tonsillitis—is capable of replacing any of the above men, should sickness prevent them from entering the race.

These men have worked hard all fall—only those who have run a long distance race realize the work they have done—and deserve to win. Their work is deserving of McGill's heartiest support, and the best wishes of every student go with them, as they match their speed, endurance and grit against our rivals, in an effort to bring to McGill another intercollegiate championship.

S.C.A. SECURES FAMOUS SPEAKER

The S. C. A. has been fortunate in securing Dr. Samuel Zwemer L.L. D. F. R. G. S., as speaker at the Thanksgiving luncheon to be given by the Ladies Auxiliary on Monday next, at Strathcona Hall.

The name of Dr. Zwemer is already very familiar in the United States and Canada as well as in many other countries and especially among the student bodies of the larger Universities where he has always been a welcome visitor when home from the East. His address on "The Strength and the Weakness of Mohammedanism" was outstanding at the Des Moines Convention two years ago, as many McGill students will remember. He is a traveller or wide experience, the author of many books, a man of striking personality, and a master of the art of public speaking.

Arabia and other Mohammedan countries have been his field since 1891, and about a dozen of the books that have come from his pen deal with these countries. He is an accepted authority on the problems of the Near East, to which he has given his time and energy for the last thirty years. He is editor of "The Moslem World," a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society and a Member of the Royal Asiatic Society.

It is to be regretted that Dr. Zwemer will not have an opportunity to meet with a larger number of students as he leaves the city on Monday evening. The luncheon at which he will speak is the annual gift of the Ladies Auxiliary to the out of town students of the University.

WRESTLERS OUT TO WIN HONORS.

Practices are held every Monday and Wednesday, the novice class at five o'clock, and the advanced class at six. However, should lectures conflict with these hours, men of either classes may turn out at either five or six o'clock. Men who contemplate turning out should do so at once, in order to derive benefit from the preliminary training and coaching which is now being given.

Altogether, the hopes of winning the Intercollegiate Wrestling Championship are very bright, as practically all of last year's team are back at College, and are turning out at the practices. So every wrestler out next Monday, at the ball room of the Union, and help bring another championship to McGill.

McGILL POLO TEAMS PLAYED LAST NIGHT

Senior Team Unable to Check Victorious M. S. C.

DEFEATED 5-3.

Red and White Intermediates Now in Championship Running.

The McGill senior Polo team failed to check the strong Montreal Swimming Club Five when the Red and White made its debut. The M. S. C. retained its lead of the City Polo league by last night defeating last year's champion McGill team by 5-3. The two teams came together after the Intermediate game had been played. There was a fair-sized crowd out to see the teams display their wares, and those present were rewarded with a very exciting and spectacular game.

The whistle blew at 9:40. Scarcely a minute had passed when Kerry of M. S. C. scored the first goal after a scramble in front of the McGill nets. Play was goal-keeper was called upon to make some very difficult stops. The M. S. C. forwards came down again and after a clever piece of combination-play, McNamee scored the second goal for the Swimming Club. McGill lost a good chance to tally when Fiske carried the ball almost into the M. S. C. nets, but Walton was successful in warding off the throw and saved the goal. The M. S. C. goaler was again called upon to stop some hard drives, and he was awake to the occasion every time, succeeding in keeping off the hard ones that Fiske and Vernot were putting him to. Foran of the M. S. C. scored their third goal when he intercepted a pass and scored after a carefully placed shot. The score now stood 3-0 for the Swimming Club, and McGill was now exerting her utmost to overcome the difficult lead. The McGill forwards, working like Trojans, brought and kept the ball down at the M. S. C. end but in spite of their efforts they were unable to get it past the goal-keeper. The quarter ended with McGill failing to tally.

The M. S. C. goaler was again bombarded with shots but nothing could get by, and he succeeded in making sensational stops which called for a near-ovation from the crowd. After some clever work Fiske scored McGill's first goal on a pass from Vernot. Parsons followed with another soon after and the score now stood 3-2 in favour of M. S. C. When the whistle blew for the change of ends the Red and White chances for overcoming the lead looked very bright.

Scarcely a minute had elapsed since the whistle blew for the resumption of play, when C. Foran with a cleverly-placed shot brought the Swimming Club's total up to four. The McGill forwards then came back with a strong attack on the M. S. C. nets, but Walton saved his team, and held off many very difficult ones. The M. S. C. forwards took possession of the ball, after a clever piece of combination work McNamee scored his second tally and brought his team's total up to five. Fiske followed with a tally and the score now stood, M. S. C. 5; McGill, 3.

Play was renewed with increased vigour by the McGill squad who made combined attacks on the M. S. C. team which was now playing a defensive game. The most desperate efforts of the Red & White were unable to penetrate the almost impregnable nets which Walton succeeded in guarding with invariable success. The final whistle blew with the score 5-3 for the Swimming Club.

For the winners Walton, in the nets played an outstanding game and gave a fine exhibition of goal-keeping. He was subjected to no easy shots, and he succeeded in making many numerous saves which looked very dangerous and at times sure goals. McNamee, on the line was dangerous at all times and he was by far the most effective man in the Natatorium. For McGill Fiske played his usual stellar game and was very effective on the line. Parsons also played well but he was very closely checked and unable to get away.

The line-ups were as follows:—

McGill	Goal	M. S. C.
MacKindsey	Walton
Foss	Defence
Parsons	Ed. Foran
	E. Foran

Vernot	C. Foran

The McGill Intermediate Polo team succeeded in getting into the Championship running when they last night defeated the M. S. C. Intermediate Polo team at the Laurentian tank. Starting the tallying from the very first the McGill team succeeded in retaining the lead throughout the entire game. When the final whistle blew the score stood 3-1 in favour of the Red and White sextette.

Play was fast from the start and this was kept during the entire period. The M. S. C. forwards succeeded on several occasions in penetrating the McGill defence, but Brown, the McGill goaler, saved his team every time. When the first whistle blew neither team had succeeded in tallying. After they had increased vigour and both goalers were called upon to stop some very hard shots. After carrying the ball down the

EXCELLENT SMOKER FOR MARITIMERS

Address of Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor Much Enjoyed.

DANCE PLANNED.

Sir Arthur Currie Spoke Briefly Favoring Part Played by the Club.

The Union Cafeteria was the scene of a most enjoyable social event last evening, when the Maritime men assembled for the annual smoker.

The meeting was opened by an introductory address from the President, S. E. Trites. Mr. Trites outlined the proposed activities of the Club for the coming session, not least of importance among which was the proposed "Maritime Western Club Dance," for which application has been made to the Students' Council. Trites then called upon the representative from the Western Club, Eddie Day, who spoke of the proposed dance. He said that the Western Club were looking forward with pleasant anticipation to a dance held in conjunction with the ladies and gentlemen from the East.

The speaker of the evening, Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, of the Bank of Montreal, in a most delightful and humorous address, entertained the club for half an hour. He spoke of the splendid stock from which the Maritime men came, the United Empire Loyalists; and urged every man present to live up to the high standard set by their forefathers. Sir Frederick gave words of advice, and counsel, which every man present took to heart, and which should help all present to go out and achieve greatness. He emphasized the fact that great ability was not necessary to achieve greatness, but that consistent attendance to duties day by day, ever with a "goal" in view, would in the end lead to a successful career.

A most delightful number on the programme was a recitation by Jack MacDonald. Jack, with his humorous-recitation, was warmly applauded, and certainly upheld his reputation as an entertainer of rare ability.

The entrance of Sir Arthur Currie as the meeting was about to break up was a most pleasant surprise to all. Sir Arthur, who had just come from a meeting of the Literary Society, spoke of the importance of this phase of college life, and announced that he was going to recommend to the Board of Governors of the University that a teacher of elocution be appointed for McGill.

Sir Arthur expressed a desire that the same feeling of good fellowship as existed between the Maritime men assembled should exist between all students at McGill, and spoke of the part played by such clubs in fostering this spirit. Hearty cheers were given Sir Arthur when he requested that he be allowed to enroll himself as a member of the Club.

Adney and Massie supplied the music for the evening and gave a rare treat.

The manager of the Cafeteria received the thanks of all present for the excellent refreshments provided. The meeting broke up with the college yells of the various Maritime Universities represented.

The "Daily" staff wish to convey their thanks to the executive of the Maritime Club for the excellent refreshments they so kindly sent down last evening.

entire line Ross scored the first goal for McGill. Play was again carried down to the M. S. C. end, and in a scramble before the goal Duclos of the M. S. C., carried the ball into his own net, and this counted for McGill's second tally. Soon after Stafford of the M. S. C., came down unchecked and managed to slip the ball past Brown. The score now stood, 2-1 for McGill, as the whistle blew for half time.

Right from the beginning of the second half the M. S. C. team made determined efforts to score and carried the ball down, time and again, only to be held back by the clever stopping of the McGill goaler. The ball was returned again to the M. S. C. end and Munro missed an open net. McGill was in a very advantageous position but failed to score. Munro succeeded in scoring on a pass which he intercepted. Duclos was bombarded with the shots of the McGill forwards and the game ended with the ball in the M. S. C. end. The final score stood 3-1 for McGill.

Brown, in the nets, and Vickerson on McGill's forward line played a stellar game. Ross at centre also played well and was very effective.

The line-ups were as follows:

McGill	Goal	M. S. C.
Brown	Duclos
	Defence
Torsythe	Goodfellow
Anson	MacKinnon
	Centre
Ross	Stafford

Vickerson	McAdam
Munro	Andrews

BIBLE STUDY FOR SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Dr. Mackay to Lead Study of New Testament.

Professor Ira A. Mackay, M. A., LL. B., Ph. D. of the Faculty of Law has consented to teach a Bible Class group in connection with the Students' Christian Association. This group will start next Sunday at three o'clock in the Reading Room of Strathcona Hall.

The study of the four gospels of the New Testament will be carefully taken up, and the social, ethical and religious phases of the teachings of Christ discussed. Dr. Mackay, for many years, successively conducted a similar Class in the city of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, which grew from a very small number to an enormous membership.

Any Student, from any Faculty of the University is kindly requested to attend these discussions, which will last for an hour, and which have every prospect of an enjoyable and profitable time.

INTELLIGENCE TEST GIVEN TO FRESHMEN.

"What am I best fitted for?" This question invariably confronts the freshman as he enters the college to choose his course of study.

"What do you like?" the director may ask, and the freshman, with a vacant look usually answers, "I don't know."

In many institutions of learning a system is being adopted and worked out that aids the undecided entry in choosing his line of study. For instance, at the University of Nevada an intelligence test is given to freshmen and special students on entering the university to begin the year's work. This test is given for the purpose of determining in what field the individual is best adapted. The questions given cover so many subjects that the "long" and "short" points of the student are readily ascertained. If such a system were adopted at this institution many misfits would be prevented and many undecided freshmen would be placed in the realm in which they would function best.

TWO MEDICAL PAPERS READ ON TUESDAY.

helped to break the even tenor of the essay, and render it more interesting. Humor was scattered broadcast throughout "Periods and Masters," an agreeable touch in such a "meaty" subject.

Taken as a whole, "Periods and Masters" covered fairly completely the history and great masters of medicine.

After the presentation of these papers a social hour was spent and refreshments were served. The date of the next meeting was set provisionally for Dec. 1.

PEPYS AT McGill

Wednesday, Oct. 2nd. Early to the Library with my books for my lodgings took to be one of the depressing multi-lingual so sordid and barren. Especially did I desire to read further of the rules governing the kind of foot-ball that the Americans do play at, but could not because of a certain young girl, whom I took to be one of the depressing multitude of our women students, who sat at one of those tables set apart for the purpose of the men. She wore hose of such a violent purple hue that I felt great constraint thereat, not being able to make my eyes perform their appointed task on the pages of my book; the more so inasmuch as I could not discern how far this colourful display extended the coping of the table being in the way of my sight. It is ever a great matter of veneration and concern to me how short the young maids of this day bear their wiles. To an al-house before I slipped, to my great solace.
